COTTON WEEK OBSERVANCE MAY 16-21

PORTERVILLE, Apr. 21 — Porterville Merchant committee members voted unanimously Tuesday to join county-wide—and national—observance of Cotton week, May 16 through 21, with winners in a window display contest to be announced at the Porterville fair.

Also slated to appear at the fair during its three-day and night run May 19, 20 and 21, is the girl selected as Tulare County Cotton queen in a contest sponsored by the Tulare County Cotton Wives.

Appearing at the Tuesday Merchants meeting were Vern Highley, from Calcut in Bakersfield; Tom Smith, representing the National Cotton Council, and Roscoe Honeycutt, manager of the Tule River Cooperative gins, representing the county cotton industry.

They pointed out that one out of 15 persons in Tulare county is directly or indirectly dependent on the cotton industry for a living; they explained the great economic importance of cotton to the local area, and to the county, and they told of promotional material that will be made through the National Cotton Council.

Merv Brown On Fair Board; Meeting Friday

PORTERVILLE, Apr. 21 — Merv Brown, Porterville implement dealer, this week accepted an appointment to the board of directors of the Porterville fair, replacing Charles Haener, who resigned when business interests took him away from the community.

Brown will join other fair directors Friday evening, when the board meets at Gang Sue's, at 7 p.m., to discuss plans for the 1960 fair that is slated for May 19, 20, and 21.

In other developments on the fair front, official premium book came off the presses this week and is available for distribution from Rolla Bishop, fair board secretary, P. O. Box 213, Porterville.

Bishop reports that first livestock entries have already been received, the Burton 4-H club turning in the entries from club members.

CLARENCE BRADFORD, who has been a Terra Bella district farmer since 1912, and who served on the Terra Bella Irrigation District board from 1934 until 1953, is shown above as he addressed the gathering of friends at dedication of Bradford Station last Saturday morning. Alarm And Optimism Expressed As Valley Citrus Crop Of 35,000 Cars Predicted At Sunkist Meeting

EXETER, Apr. 21 — The board of directors of Sunkist Growers met yesterday in the San Joaquin valley for the first time in the 67-year-history of the world famous citrus marketing cooperative.

Sunkist General Manager F. R. Wilcox said, "The visit of the Sunkist directors to Central California is significant because it highlights California's expanding citrus production and Sunkist's plans for the marketing of the increasing crops."

"Sunkist, with its 52 sales offices throughout the United States and Canada, and its complete sales and merchandising service, supported by Sunkist advertising, is well suited to assume leadership in this market development," Wilcox stated.

Preceded by a tour of the three-county citrus area the previous day, the meeting, held in the auditorium of Exeter High school, was attended by some 500 citrus growers and packing house managers, located in the Central California citrus producing area.

Of particular interest on the business agenda was a report from the Special Navel Orange Study committee, a group established by Sunkist board action 18 months ago to analyze the expansion of navel orange acreage in the Central Valley and plan for the marketing of the increased crops expected during the next decade.

Chairman of this committee is Ralph R. Tyrrell, of Terra Bella. Members include R. L. Hampton, Corona; P. C. Higginson, Upland; Paul R. Jennings, Redlands; Roy R. McLain, Visalia; Everett Myers, Lindsay; S. F. Trueblood, Porterville, and E. O. Wilkinson, Riverside. Tyrrell, Hampton, Jennings and McLain are members of the Sunkist board of directors and the balance of the committee are managers of several of the district ex-

With fishing season fast approaching and warm weather a reality there is no time to lose in getting the old boy cranked up off the couch and attached to a shovel handle. These pleasant days are ideal for limbering up little used fly casting arms and a few trips with the wheelbarrow will prepare even the softest for the joy of hunting fish among the granite boulders.

This is an excellent time for crab grass spraying while they are still seedlings and Weedone Sodas will do the job even on dichondra lawns. A dollar ninety five will do two thousand square feet while exercising both arms and legs.

Weed oil will speed up weeding the beds and edging the grass. This will give you extra time to dust off your rod and oil the reel. — Better send the wife down to the nursery before going too far with this. The slow service she'll get here ought to give you plenty of time to tie a couple of flies.

When she returns laden with Zinnias, Marigolds, and Tuberous Begonias, greet her with open arms, plant the darn things, and then disappear to the garage before she can dream up any more projects for you.

An Elizabethan writer named Holingshead praised the merchants for keeping their attire conservative — "in form and color representing the ancient gravity appertaining to burgesses. Albeit the younger wives, in costly attire, cannot tell when to make an end; but devise fantastical colors, such as goose-green, pease-porridge tawny, lusty-gallant, popinjay-blue, and such other like."

What will the well-dressed Christian wear this season?

The Bible tells us to put on the armor of God. Why? "That ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil." You see, we must wage constant warfare against self, son, and Satan.

What is this armor?

St. Paul writes to the Ephesian church, "Having your loins girt about with truth." What is truth? Jesus answered that with, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life." And He called the Holy Spirit the Spirit of truth, that leads us into all truth, i.e. a deeper knowledge of the Saviour.

"And having on the breastplate of righteousness." Upright living. Living aright with God and men.

"And your feet shod with the Gospel of peace." Going with the Gospel, sharing the Good News that Jesus saves — this is the duty and privilege of every Christian. The Christian, to be the light of the world, must shine.

"Above all, taking the shield of faith." Faith in God shields us from Satan's traps and tricks, and crowns us victors over sin and death. Jesus said that, armed with faith tiny as a mustard seed, you and I possess the magic that moves mountains.

"And take the helmet of salvation. And the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. Praying always with all prayer, in the Spirit."

YOUR LEGISLATOR AT WORK!

Senator
J. Howard Williams

32nd District
California State Legislature

Not even the fact that 1960 is Election Year, so that those of us seeking reelection must, understandably, devote some effort to the June Primary, slows down the tempo of our interim committee activity. The echoes of the final gavel on our 1960 sessions scarcely died away in the legislative halls before new schedule of meetings were set up. It looks as though May will be a busy, as well as a merry month for many of us.

In addition to the multitude of topics assigned to interim groups of both houses in 1959, they will have to study and report on a number of new and complicated matters referred to them by the 1960 special session. Some of these new items were the subjects of bills which did not emerge successfully from committee hearings during the session. Some were subjects adopted on various matters which do not have the force of law, but which do state our legislative consensus on such matters.

Though there was considerable agitation for its inclusion, the topic of water development was not put on the agenda for the special session, so statutory measures relating to it could not be introduced and acted upon. However, a number of resolutions on water were introduced in both the Senate and Assembly, and many of them were referred to interim groups for study. Their combined scope is broad enough to open the whole statewide water problem to re-investigation. The Assembly interim water committee is proposing a series of meetings throughout the state during the remainder of the year, and has set the first in San Francisco early in May.

Higher education will probably keep the education and fiscal committee of both houses quite occupied for some time to come. An entire series of measures are up for review, including several recommendations of the liaison committee on the master plan for higher education. The matter of additional state support for local district junior colleges is one topic. State paid scholarships for students at public colleges is another. Provisions for subsistence grants on top of basic scholarship amounts is a third subject in this category. Special scholarships for graduate students is still another. Attention will also be paid to the performing of extension and field services by state colleges.

The Governor himself has given an important assignment to a couple of our interim committees. In the closing hours of the special session he transmitted to us reports by two different study groups on streamlining our state government, with the request that they be studied by our membership with an eye to action in the 1961 session. He made no recommendations at the time, but pointed out that in the 30 years since the last reorganization the state budget has increased 20-fold to $2.5 billion, the number of state employees 6-fold to 115,000, and the total population 3-fold to 15 million. The Assembly committee on government organization has scheduled a first hearing on these reports for the latter part of May.

The Senate interim committee on judiciary is planning an extensive series of hearings, starting in May, on a number of important matters which have been referred to it for investigation. Narcotics, juvenile delinquency, handling of auto damage suits by the courts, and proposing to further restrict use of "loss leaders" by retail merchants make up a pretty impressive list of matters to be studied.

Individual California citizens, as well as the organizations with which they are affiliated, will have ample opportunity to voice their opinions on these and other topics during the months to come.

OUR RESPECTS TO W. C. BRADFORD

Words of appreciation for his efforts in behalf of his friends and neighbors during a period of a half century were spoken and written over the past weekend in honor of W. C. Bradford, of Terra Bella, who, as he put it, "sort of listened to my own obituary," at dedication of Bradford Station, on the Friant Kern canal, a major unit in the expanding Terra Bella Irrigation district water system.

State dignitaries, high water officials — but more important, many friends — paid tribute to Mr. Bradford, and well they might, for he has been growing oranges in the Terra Bella district since 1912, and through the years he has been one of those men that every community must have — a man of intelligence, tact and ability who is willing to give time and effort for benefit of his community.

While being active in general community affairs, Mr. Bradford's greatest contribution was in the field of water. Like other farmers in the early days of Terra Bella, he "scratched for water" that often wasn't there, but eventually the Terra Bella Irrigation district came into being; the district suffered some rough times, but in the later 30s, the Central Valley Project really began to shape up, to completely change the outlook for the district.

In 1934, Mr. Bradford became a director of the Terra Bella Irrigation district — and remember that back in those days the economic situation down on the farm was a little on the tough side.

For 20 years, Mr. Bradford served as a director of the district, for much of that time as chairman of the board. Not only did he guide the district through the early days of its modern development, but he was one of those who laid the foundation for its present extensive expansion.

Mr. Bradford also served as chairman of the Tulare County Irrigation Districts association, a group that he and the late Irvin H. Althouse organized, and out of which came the present Friant Water Users association.

As a long-time member of the Irrigation Districts Association of California, he served this powerful, and important statewide water group as a member of the executive committee, and chairman of the finance committee. He was one of those whose voice was heard and respected as California water policies and plans developed through the years.

Mr. Bradford served for many years as clerk of the Terra Bella school board; he helped organize the Terra Bella Citrus association; he served as a director of the Tulare County Lemon and Grapefruit association and also as a director of the Tulare County Fruit Exchange. In addition, he has been active in fraternal order work.

So we add our humble words to the many other words that have been spoken and written in compliment of Clarence Bradford. These words of praise that are now coming his way have been earned through his years of community work. He is richly entitled to them.

WE GIVE YOU THE BIRD — THE FEATHERED VARIETY, THAT IS

AS IT IS SPRING, today we take up the matter of birds and bird lore. We don't mean the type of bird that is made by pursing the lips and exhaling the breath in moments of displeasure that goes by the name of "Bronx Cheer", but the genuine feathered, flying article. These generally go about their business, chirping, eating insects and rarely talking back; unless the subject happens to be a parrot.

THERE IS ONE TYPE of bird that comes in for much comment by the citizens 'round and about. This is known as the dirty bird and various other names that are scarcely fit to print. Characteristic of this bird is that it flits from tree to tree along the streets, stalking automobiles. If it finds a new washed car, all the better. It then zeroes in on the victim with telling results; especially if the car is light. This is a great attention getter and usually causes many uncomplimentary remarks by car owners.

THE MOCKER IS ANOTHER well-known bird, but for different reasons. Being of an original and individualistic nature, the mocker sings at night. Just when he sleeps is a matter he keeps to himself. Personally, we enjoy this, if we happen to be awake, but not everyone shares this outlook. We had an uncle who once vowed a vendetta against mockers. He had a tree outside his bedroom window that was very attractive to mockers. Nightly, two would perch in the tree and carry on a serenade in relays. This sounded fine to the mockers but not to my uncle who claimed he couldn't sleep a wink. He was a kindly sort though, and wouldn't think of shooting at them, so he worked out a Rube Goldberg contraption of empty cans and string that he hung in the tree. At night, when the serenade started, he would jerk the string and cause a terrific din.

THIS, OF COURSE, SCARED the mockers away, but in the meantime kept my uncle awake jerking the string, and also awakened the rest of the household, who hadn't even minded the mockers. Something had to give, so my uncle finally chopped down the tree, and the mockers moved elsewhere.

THE MOST INTREPID bird we have discovered of late is one who presently lives at Main and Morton. This bird and her husband have set up light-housekeeping in the traffic light (no pun intended) on the southeast corner facing west. It is interesting to note that the happy couple selected the green light for a nesting spot. We have no way of knowing what goes through a bird's mind under these circumstances, but with the light going off and on all the time, it must think there are a lot of days and nights. If you are going east on Morton and can spare a glance from the comely peasants 'round and about, take a look at the green light and see the most original bird on Main street.

THE LIGHT CLEANERS better leave this alone 'til after the hatch. We want to see if the off-springs turn out green.

By BILL RODGERS

FARMERS, AND other persons living outside the city of Porterville were asked, during the past week, to sign, and many did sign, a petition calling on the city of Porterville to reconsider its action in dropping the Cobb-Divizich parking lot.

THE WORDING of the petition is such that there is little to argue about — virtually everyone agrees that off street parking is essential in modern business, that the trend throughout the United States is toward more and more off street parking in cities, and that the city of Porterville could, by tying up parking meter money for several years, purchase the Cobb-Divizich lot for $50,000.

AND NO one can argue against the fact that this lot is in an advantageous location.

BUT THERE are certain other things that were not mentioned in this petition that might be of interest to those of you who signed it.

WITHOUT ATTEMPTING to tell anyone what their property is worth, it might be of interest to know that while the asking price on this lot is $50,000, the city has an assessed value on the lot of $4,120, which, on a basis of prescribed assessment practices would put a sale value on the property of from $22,000 to $25,000.

AND IT was not mentioned that the city of Porterville, using parking meter funds which is essentially money that shoppers have put in Porterville parking meters, has just opened an improved, lighted, and permanent 70-car parking lot on city-owned property at Olive and Second street that will serve much of the same area that the Cobb-Divizich lot has served. Cost to purchase and develop this city lot amounted to $253.20 per parking stall, which is less than half the cost to develop a comparable parking stall on the Cobb-Divizich lot with a purchase price of $50,000.

WITH THIS new city lot open, it might be well to consider the benefits that will be derived from continued operation of the Cobb-Divizich lot. Take a look yourself. It might well appear to you that a large percentage of benefit from the Cobb-Divizich lot will now go to a small group of businesses — specifically Montgomery Ward, J. J. Newberry and Reisig Shoe store, all tenants of P. J. Divizich, who also owns half the Cobb-Divizich lot. And it would appear that certain benefits from this lot would go to the Bank of America, which has provided no off street parking on its own.

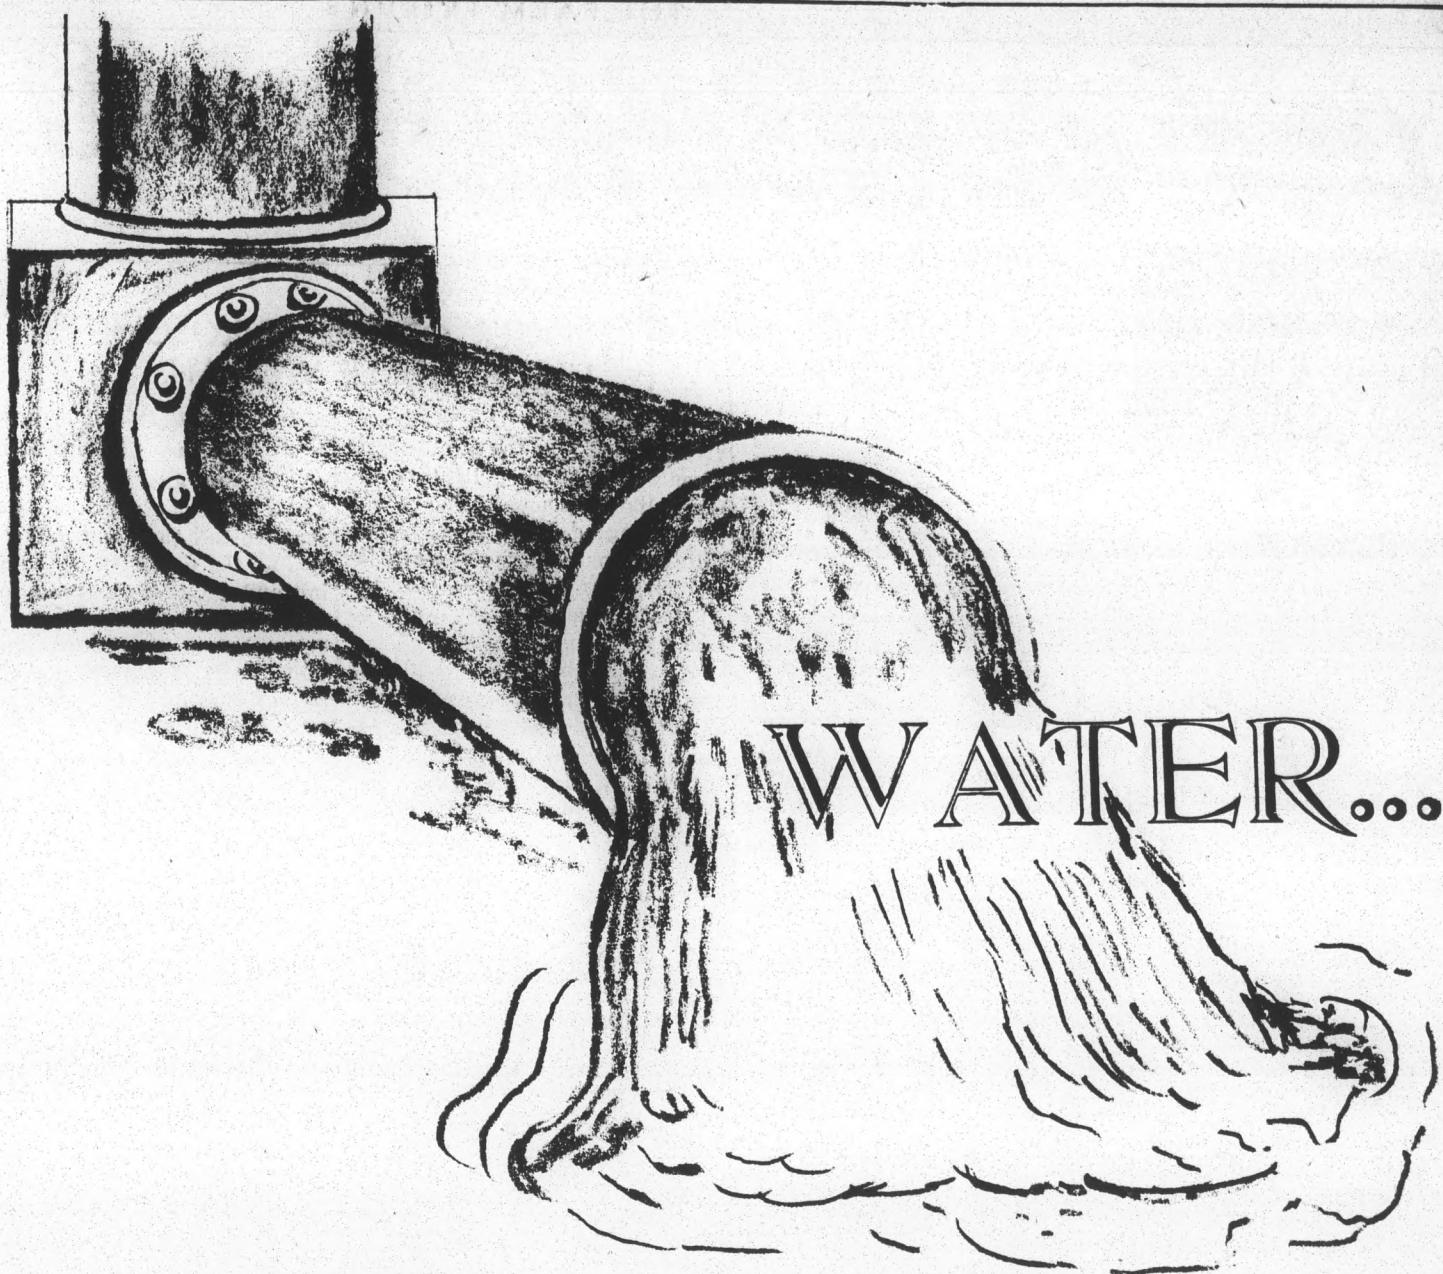

OTHER STORES in the area would also benefit, to be sure, but look the situation over and see if you don't agree that a large share of benefit from this lot, under the existing parking setup goes to these specific businesses.

NOW YOU might consider that there is some logic in the proposition that these businesses, in their own interest, and in the interest of making it easy for you people to shop in their stores, might well pick up the tab, or a proportionate share of the tab, on this lot.

AFTER ALL, there is nothing usual about this. While the city up to April 15 had provided, with your parking meter money, something over 500 off street parking stalls within the incorporated limits of Porterville, private individuals have provided twice that number with their own money.

SOME OF us on the Porterville city council feel that your park-

YOUR CHEAPEST PLANTFOOD!

OF ALL THE MANY ELEMENTS ESSENTIAL FOR PROPER AND PROFITABLE PLANT GROWTH, NONE IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN WATER — NOR NONE SO CHEAP. IN FACT, CHEAP WATER IS THE ONE SINGLE FACTOR THAT HAS ENABLED THE CALIFORNIA FARMER TO PRODUCE A POUND OF COTTON, A TON OF BEEF AND A LUG OF TOMATOES AT HALF THE COST OF FARMERS ELSEWHERE.

BUT, NOT ALL WATER IS INEXPENSIVE. SOME HAS BEEN MADE EXCESSIVELY COSTLY BY POOR PUMP EFFICIENCY. AMONG THE CAUSES ARE WORN OR PLUGGED-UP RUNNERS, AND PUMPS THAT ARE SIMPLY WORN OUT. HOWEVER, EVEN NEW PUMPS CAN BE

INEFFICIENT IF IMPROPERLY INSTALLED.

OFTEN THESE CONDITIONS CAN BE CORRECTED BY COMPARATIVELY INEXPENSIVE REPAIRS. SOMETIMES MADE RIGHT AT THE RANCH WITH ONLY MINOR DELAY IN IRRIGATING.

SO, IF IT APPEARS THAT YOUR IRRIGATION COSTS ARE OUT OF PROPORTION TO THE AMOUNT OF WATER BEING PUMPED, WHY NOT LET US CHECK YOUR PUMP'S EFFICIENCY? SUCH A TEST WILL INDICATE THE NATURE AND EXTENT OF YOUR TROUBLES AND ONCE KNOWN CAN BE READILY CORRECTED, RESULTING IN MORE WATER AND, A SUBSTANTIAL REDUCTION IN PUMPING COSTS.

WATER OF THE MUKOLOME LIKE A FICKLE WOMAN

The waters of the Mukolome river, which join the San Joaquin river near Isleton, California, are much like a woman. Fickle, and ever-changing. One is never certain from one hour to the next as to just what is in store for the fisherman who ventures forth on that broad expanse of water.

We fished there for several days during the past week and were not at all surprised with the experience we had while there.

The first day the water was calm under a sky that shown brightly as clouds and jet aircraft from Travis Air Force Base staged impromptu races over the crooked river. We had the boat anchored at our favorite fishing spot, which is a break made in the tule infested bank by gnarled stumpy trees and a number of odd shaped rocks that we call the "rock pile". We tied up there at 6:30 in the morning and sat there, rocking gently on the outgoing tide, for four hours before the action started. Then, as if at a given signal, the striped bass lurking in the murky depths began feeding.

Shortly afterwards we had our limit of three bass, while our father-in-law fishing two feet on our left and an uncle fishing two feet to the right had failed to catch a single keeper-size fish. The biggest fish of the three was a fine size six pounder that came very reluctantly along side the boat to be netted. Shortly afterwards the same make-believe signal was given and the fish quit feeding. Then the fishermen went home.

The lady Mukolome changed her mind the next day and a blasting north wind swept choppy white-capped waves swiftly along toward the junction of that river and the San Joaquin, three miles down stream. We anchored our boat at the same fishing spot that morning. This time the anchor did not hold against the chilling winds, and time and again we found ourselves drifting down stream with the outgoing tide. It was when this happened that we realized where the old phrase "swear like a sailor" came from.

After many attempts the boat finally held taut against the anchor ropes and we cast out in search of fish. The wind chilled through three sweat shirts and a jacket and the choppy water made it hard to keep a tight line. But a dyed-in-the-wool striped fisherman accepts such things. The signal was long in coming that day and was short lived. During the interval while the bass were feeding we managed to capture one of legal keeping size and then they seemed to lose interest in our sardine bait.

All the while the lady Mukolome continued to frown with frothy waves while the wind whipped her into a westward bound cauldron. We finally pulled up our anchors and headed for the dock — beaten by the river and wondering if it was worth all the trouble.

But there was little use in wondering, for worth it or not, the next time that we have the chance we will be back challenging that windy northern river again.

ing meter money should be spent as economically as possible and should be used to distribute parking lots around the shopping districts as the city can afford to do it. Where parking lots are desired "at the back door" of a business, some of us think that private capital might well take care of this — in fact private capital has already taken care of considerable parking in this situation.

WE JUST submit these ideas as something for you to think about. After all, there can be no argument as to the desirability of the Cobb-Divizich parking lot. We just think that under the present circumstances, a good shot of free enterprise is in order on this lot.

SPARKY NOBLE AND CHRIS OWEN ELECTED PRESIDENT AND JUNIOR PRESIDENT OF BURTON 4-H CLUB

BURTON, Apr. 21 — Sparky Noble was elected president of the Burton 4-H club at a meeting held Monday evening at the Burton school, and Chris Owen was elected junior president under a club plan to give office experience to more members.

Other officers are: Dan Nuckols and Mike McCarthy, vice presidents; Susan Rodgers, secretary; Cassie Sheela, treasurer; Ann Kennedy, reporter; Don Griswold, sergeant-at-arms; and Judith and Joyce Evans, and Joetta Crabtree, song leaders.

Other junior officers are: Julia Owen, vice president; Claudia Daybell, secretary; Prescilla Shires, treasurer; Bob Griswold, reporter; Tom Pratt, sergeant-at-arms; and Laurie Noble and Linda LaPresta, song leaders.

In other business of the Monday meeting, Jim Lombardi reported on his recent trip to the Junior Livestock Exposition at the San Francisco Cow Palace; with him was Bob Nuckols. Ribbons won by them were presented by Guido Lombardi, club leader.

Barbara Alexander reported on county demonstration and field day at Exeter; representing the club at regional field day in Fresno this weekend will be Ann Kennedy.

A beef field day was announced for Sunday at the Guthrie Feed lot; also a sheep field day on May 1 at the Bob Nuckols ranch.

It was also announced that the club fair booth committee will meet Monday, April 25, at the home of Carolyn Cox. Serving on this committee will be: Bob and Dan Nuckols, Dick Pratt, Carolyn and Troy Cox, Joyce and Judith Evans, Don Kevorkian and Mike McCarthy.

Project reports were given by: Dan Nuckols, Don Griswold, Judith Evans, Chris Owen, Rodger Davenport, Julia Owen, John Sunderland, Don Kevorkian, Sparky Noble, Jim Lombardi, Dick and Tom Pratt, Ann Kennedy, Jane Griswold.

Group singing was enjoyed at close of the meeting.

Alarm And

changes affiliated with Sunkist Growers.

The report pointed out that there are essentially two views which have been expressed widely in the San Joaquin valley. One is alarm at the tremendous increase in plantings in Central California and pessimism on the outcome. The other view pointed to the fact that, over the past ten years, the total market for California-Arizona navel oranges has increased from a level of 30,000 cars to 35,000 cars annually.

The committee made several definite recommendations. First, advertising and merchandising budgets should be increased before a surplus develops. Second, new merchandising aids should be tried in test markets to develop the best means of substantially increasing sales of fresh fruit and third, these markets should be saturated with additional supplies of navel oranges to test these methods and the sales potential under simulated surplus conditions.

Projected estimates of the Study committee indicate that, by 1970, there could be a potential production of 40,000 carloads of navel oranges from Central California. This figure, added to the Southern California harvest which is expected to continue at approximately its present level, could result in a total navel production of 53,000 cars annually. This, the committee pointed out, would be half again larger than any navel crop produced during the last 10 years.

In a word of caution, the committee advised citrus growers to carefully evaluate present production trends and market opportunities before embarking on further planting programs.

D. M. Anderson, director of marketing for Sunkist, gave the report for the Special committee.
